

Photography of Wildlife and Plants of Area
for Natural History Study
Frank B. Salisbury
Department of Plant Science
Utah State University
Project Number 189

The first draft of a manuscript entitled, "Wilderness Questions" was completed. This was the primary purpose of the stay at the Station which offered an excellent place for contemplation and study. A number of pictures of plants and animals in the area were taken. The seminar I presented gave me some excellent feedback from the people at the Station. This was a very material contribution to my manuscript.

Also, I investigated the possibility of developing a project which could be conducted at the Station in physiological ecology with a graduate student who is interested in doing research in this particular field.